Electronic-dance sensation Kim Cameron has been making dance hits for many years now. She's released nine albums with her most recent hit being "A Dance" and "Paradise," which hit the top 40 on the Billboard Contemporary Top 40, and lasting multiple weeks in the same spot. Also noted in her bio, she has won the DJ Times 3 Most Added and Top 30 albums for her Entwined album. Her accolades include being invited to sing the national anthem for the NFL's Washington Redskins and the Giants vs. Steelers game.

Cameron is exclusively sharing her new single, explaining that it's a reminder to remember that "people who really care about each other often cannot get out of their own way. I wrote this song to tell those (like me), you can let the cat and mouse game go for a night. We have only one life to really love, so love as much as you can. Make it count, everyday." The track debuts on iTunes, Amazon, Spotify and all other digital retailers on Dec. 19, with her greatest hits album coming out on Jan. 19.
