Procrastinating fans were disappointed to find themselves unable to get tickets to the last show of 2009. The show was the first in a series of upcoming performances and appearances that coincide with the release of the band's sophomore CD Turning Point.

"I loved performing at the Gaylord – it was the highlight of my year and I could not think of a better way to start the Tour for 2010" said lead singer Kim Cameron. Fans that were able to attend the performance were treated to special download cards that allowed them to purchase the CD before it hits the streets on January 19th. The band performed songs off of the cd such as the first single "Timeless" which has already received radio play in the US and internationally in countries such as Canada, Australia and Japan.
