

BANDWIDTH DAILY

June 30, 2016

*"The most fun concert was this past New Year's Eve in the DR.
There is something about the energy of 5000 people ..."*

BANDWIDTH DAILY: Congrats on your growth! What inspired your creative path? Kim Cameron: I have always been in music since my clarinet lessons at the age of 6, but this original project started in 2008. I got to a point when I was working the corporate world where I forgot what made me happy. Long hours changed me as a person, and not in a good way. I found that if I did not make a leap back to my first love (music), I might never find my inner smile.

BANDWIDTH DAILY

June 30, 2016

BANDWIDTH DAILY: The music business is a roller coaster, what are some of your proudest moments? KC: Definitely performing for the NFL twice. The most fun concert was this past New Year's Eve in the DR. There is something about the energy of 5000 people, a great DJ and percussionist team that just worked on every level.

BANDWIDTH DAILY: Capitalizing on momentum is key to success, what new music or events are on the way? KC: Just got back, as I write, from Europe. I have been doing short tours this year, (UK, Germany, Holland, France) trying to expand my music abroad. Hoping to announce the Middle East next...crossing fingers.