Exclusive Interview with Kim Cameron

May 14, 2021 by Jodi Marxbury

How are you making out in 2021 with your music?

It's already been an amazingly creative year. I have released a single 'Show Me You Feel' and remixes, then released a collaboration with Synth Steve, and next month, releasing another music video with a new tune and remixes called Don't Tell Me No! I have three more collaborations that I promised to work on over the next month...so things are moving along! In between, I wrote a few songs for an upcoming film.

What has the difference been between 2020 Kim Cameron vs. 2021 Kim Cameron?

Well, I am much happier! Goodbye 2020! Yuck! Pandemics are not for me!

Is there anything or one that has contributed to the growth?

Feeling free. Feeling safe. All the things you should feel all the time!

What do you base your success on?

Being supported by really great friends and fans. I could not do it without each and every one of them!

How has the support of your fans kept you to keep on going?

As long as they are hungry for more music, I will keep writing it! As long as they are happy, I am happy. I mean, I can write songs for myself, but what fun is that? Music is always about sharing.

Any major news to share?

I just finished my first full length feature film (animated) for kids! Right now, I am in discussions with several networks...so let's see who picks it up. I am really happy with the result, but it was a 4 year project. Loads of heavy lifting.

What do new fans need to stream RIGHT now of yours?

Show Me You Feel! And, in June....Don't Give Me No!

Where can they keep up with you going forward?
