

Spin Me Ever After

March 7, 2013

Side FX features lead singer, Kim Cameron, who is the 'FX' factor. Kim and the group are not content to follow a musical style but break the mold and explore new sounds and mix the rhythm and beats that help set them apart. If you are a Comcast subscriber, be watching Xfinity on Demand for their 30 minute concert, recorded at Tobacco Road, Miami's oldest night club. Look for the folder 'Get Local', then 'Entertainment' and finally, Side FX.

Side FX's unique sound is evident in one of their recent popular songs "Spin Me Ever After" which has an electro-dance pop sound. The vocals are soothing yet strong giving a push. It is the same with the music and beat – it is not overly edgy which really helps round out the sound and keeps you moving.

How you look at the lyrics is open to interpretation to the listener. Is it about a great night out? A first date? Time with the one soul mate you are totally in love with? Yes, it is. It is also very worthy of your weekend or workout playlist.

Kim and Side FX hail from Washington, DC – if we could get their high energy beat into the Capitol and offices of elected officials there is a real possibility they could get more accomplished. It would be very difficult to remain sluggish and not work to your best potential with this beat pushing you through each day.

Their 2011 single "A Dance" broke into the Billboard Top 40 Adult Contemporary Mediabase Chart in October of that year, and January 2012. You may also have heard their music playing on your favorite TV show or in film.

Be watching for their fourth album coming out this year (which means you should be over at iTunes, Amazon.com or CDBaby checking out the last ones).
