Lions, tigers and bears might be ‘oh my,’ but for Kim Cameron, tigers are a ‘must have.’ In her latest release, ‘Wanna Go,’ the last single to be released from her award-winning album ‘Naturally Yours,’ Kim leverages the fresh florals from Miami, the wildlife from Africa and the film making talent from Ohio to create the ‘Wanna Go Music Video.’ To download this song:

Wanna Go was produced by Kevin Rockhill whose resume includes Tiesto “Club Life Vol.#3” US #1 Dance Charts, Jake Miller “Us Against Them” Album #3 Billboard, Stonebridge, Maino, Slim (from 112) Wale, Freeway, Chingy, Estelle, Jay Rock, Vado, Hot Rod, Spider Loc, Fox Sports, CBS, Warner Bros, MTV, VH1, Rayvon, MC Lyte. The music video story unfolds in Kim’s daydream of a life filled with adventure, wildlife, and of course falling in love, a part played by model Johnny Alexander.

Filmed at Miami’s lush Secret Gardens, where tropical greens are the norm, professional wildlife trainers assisted in the shoot with a Lemur, Monkey and a Tiger. Her film staff also carried some weight using photographer Dave McMahan a renown underwater photographer has leaped above the current to shoot creative imagery around the US. His pieces are featured in specialized art galleries in Florida. Ron Schwane also assisted in the shoot, who is a photojournalist for the Associated Press covering high profile events such as the Word Series, NBA Finals, and BCS National Championship games. The video was edited by Chicago’s Mark Rizzo who has an Emmy for Broadcast Motion Design.

Kim Cameron (Side FX) is a high-energy, 2-time Top 20 Billboard chart-topping electronica sound with placements on Billboard Dance Club, Hot AC, AC; CMJ; AAA, DJ Times, FMQB music charts and radio across the US, Canada, Europe, and Australia. Kim Cameron, who performed twice for the NFL (Giants, Redskins) to over 70,000, has toured across the U.S., Caribbean & Europe, garnered millions of YouTube views, featured on Xfinity, and awarded Album of the Year, Best Live Performance, Silver Medal from Global Music Awards, Semi-Finalists for Song of the Year, and American Songwriter Nominee.
