Some quick info on Kim: Growing up in Southern California, taking time away from the Surf she was in the marching band playing the clarinet, starring in high school musicals and of course the choir. Her real talent soared when she was in fronting the cover band and dj-ing. After University getting her degree in Broadcast Journalism and a stint as a radio personality she transitioned into corporate America. Finding that the business cog really wasn't her true passion and watching a beloved family member battle cancer she knew she couldn't compromise what was in her soul any longer, music and creativity.
