

Brand New Music Video: Kim Cameron “Broken Heart” with footage from Hurricane Irma

Veteran chart topper Kim Cameron (Side FX) has released a new music video for her song “Broken Heart” and in the wake of Hurricane Irma she has decided to incorporate some of the devastation that has hit her home state of Florida.

A recent quote from Kim about the new video: “When DJ Halo and I reworked “Broken Heart” into this very chill deep house vibe, I knew we had struck the right tone for today’s sounds. The next hurdle was to find the imagery that showcased the song’s story and new sound. I had no idea how we were going to pull that off, then Irma struck. While the whole hurricane time in Florida was not fun to be around, it was important to tell the South Floridian story. Through road closures, downed trees and rubble, my director was able to capture some of the loss, some of the heartache, some of the broken hearts that needed to be sewn back together.”

Broken Heart will be featured on Kim’s ‘Greatest Hits’ album that is set for release on January 19th 2018. Check out the video below!!
